“Unique, Buildable, Sustainable”

David Baird and Marcelle Guilbeau of Building Ideas, LLC specialize in creating unique, buildable and sustainable spaces. “We believe that environmentally-sustainable designs empower our clients’ dreams, making their homes or offices healthier, happier and more harmonious,” states Marcelle. “Architecture and interiors require the ability to create something just right for the client that is both technically and aesthetically great. Some firms are good at one or the other; we excel at both,” emphasizes David.

In fact David and Marcelle are among the first LEED-AP (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design Accredited Professional) architects and interior designers in Tennessee. They skillfully make each project unique and memorable, while keeping size, cost, timing, function and aesthetic goals realistic and providing the latest offerings in energy efficiency and sustainable construction. “Environmentally-friendly designs can be customized, healthier and more cost-effective in the long run,” Marcelle explains. “Our buildings are high-performance and high-quality in all ways, both seen and unseen.” For example, designs might include electric generating solar panels for more effective use of sunlight or geothermal heating and cooling for perfect indoor temperatures in any weather. “And it’s been proven that LEED-certified projects ultimately have more value in the marketplace,” David adds. ☺

David and Marcelle have been quietly integrating green/sustainable elements in their constructions for years and are pleased to see so many clients concerned about energy efficiency and healthy living.
